ROOM

A drab stucco courtyard was transformed into a comprehensive outdoor entertainment center with the look and feel of an Old World piazza. The space features a fully equipped outdoor kitchen area, including a masonry-enclosed pizza oven. A separate bar area with refrigeration, sinks, storage and an outdoor television, offers ample seating around a uniquely shaped, raised-height granite counter with rough-hewn edges.

A pergola with massive timber supports shades the dining and seating areas, and is anchored by a stone fireplace with a curved, raised hearth. Lindgren softens the expansive hardscape by incorporating planters and beds throughout, as well as a unique water feature in one corner.

As impressive as this space looks, the design, planning and installation of the utilities behind the scenes may be even more impressive, including a complex drainage system to collect and remove all excess water from the enclosed courtyard. In addition, there is an extensive and equally complex network of gas, electric, potable water.
