

The latest high-tech and high-design home products grab attention at the Kitchen & Bath Industry Show and the International Builders' Show, both part of the 2016 Design & Construction Week. Here are some of our favorites

1

AGA, the iconic British brand, introduces standard U.S. sizes with its AGA Professional line of 30-, 36- and 48-inch gas and dual-fuel ranges featuring sealed brass burners; broil, natural airflow bake and convection oven settings; and EasyClean™ technology. The 48-inch model (shown) has one large-capacity convection oven, a second conventional oven, six burners, continuous cast-iron grate and griddle. $8,999 for gas, $9,699 for dual fuel. AGAMARVEL.COM.

2

A perfectly crisp crust. Browning and bubbling mazzarelli. Bring it on with GE's new Monogram Pizza Oven, designed to bring restaurant-quality cooking capabilities into the home. It fits into a standard wall oven cavity yet is spacious enough to make a large pizza. The oven incorporates a compact interior ventilation system so it requires no special installation or construction. $9,900. GE.COM/APPLIANCES.

3

Turn your stone or engineered stone countertop into a serving station for warm food with the Viking Incognito™ Induction Warmer. Install the device under the counter and place a special trivet on the countertop above it. Set the desired temperature on the control panel, put the food in induction-compatible cookware and set it on the trivet. Combine up to three units per 15-amp circuit to create a buffet station. $3,199. VIKINGRANGE.COM.

4

Gaggenau's 400 combi-steam oven series has a fully automatic cleaning system for appliances with food inlet and outlet water connections, ensuring a high level of hygiene. The ovens include a new sous-vide function in which food is placed in an airtight plastic bag and cooked at lower-than-normal temperatures for longer times so it retains moisture and doesn't overcook. $6,999 for 24-inch model, $8,199 for 30-inch model. GAGGENAU.COM/US.

5

The new Northwest 1947 by Blanco Stone Works is a retro-inspired commercial-grade 36-inch, six-burner, dual-fuel range. It has a 5-cubic-foot self-cleaning convection oven, programmable bake and clean, six sealed gas burners, continuous grates and an oversized storage drawer. It comes in nine standard colors (Candy Red is shown) and custom colors using the BLK color matching program. $6,995. BLANCOSTOVEWORKS.COM.

6

RangeCRAFT introduces the first kitchen range hood with Bluetooth® control systems. Shows is the Warm Design in a warm blue-toned color that is part of the stainless steel — not powder-coated — and has mirrored stainless steel bands. "The distinctive character of the contemporary artwork, the beauty of the metal and the crystals from Swarovski make every creation truly original," says President Barbara Herus. Starting at $10,999. RANGECAFT.COM.

7

Fans of cooking brand Thermador can now enjoy a full suite of appliances from the Italian firm with its new 36-inch refrigerator ($2,999) and 24-inch dishwasher ($899 for standard, $1,099 for upgraded). The refrigerator has a dual air-cooling system, temperature control, full crisper and two freezer drawers. The dishwasher just allows loads a temperature boost to 150 degrees and extra-quiet sound insulation. $699.99. THERMADOR.COM.

8

The new stainless steel drawer pan fits for under-counter refrigerators by Thue Residential will give you a nice in place (putting in glass) experience similar to professional kitchens, with everything organized at your fingertips. The fit can hold up to six ingredients, rolling elements such as freshly chopped vegetables, meats, dairy, coffee and pre-cooked ingredients instantly available. $195. THUE-RESIDENTIAL.COM.

9

Omega by Coaxione, the ultra-compact surface with advanced technical properties for interior and exterior use, introduces the Milano Series of four high-glass colors to meet growing demand for reflective finishes and modern style. Available in matte (soft white), gloss (gunmetal gray), lacquer (dark taupe) and splendor (brown, subtle gray). $99 to $99 per square foot. Coaxione in Fairfield, MA. OMEGACABINETRY.COM.

10

New from Omega, the modern glide-by base cabinet maximizes storage without doors protruding into the kitchen. The cabinet style provides a minimalist look with maximum storage and full access. OMEGACABINETRY.COM.