Above: Gothic details distinguish the kitchen. Paneling on the island echoes the swoops of the monumental hood over the Viking stove. Above right: The Cashes enjoy their morning coffee in the cozy breakfast room at the antique English table surrounded by Spanish chairs. Opposite page: The morning room, with its cool stone floors and brick walls, gets dressed up at Christmas with a tinsel tree, silver accessories, and a pair of oyster shell trees. The oak settee is antique, as is the wooden butchers' table which bears centuries-old cut marks.
